

Abstract

The invention relates to an airbag assembly comprising a mechanism for a stationary driver's airbag, i.e. an airbag that does not rotate with the rotation of the steering wheel. Said airbag assembly is configured in such a way that the mechanism is situated inside the steering column. The invention also relates to a gear and an operating method for an airbag assembly of this type.